Lions Facts and Team History

This handy pooket-sized brochure has been prepared by the Detroit Football Co. to tell about the Detroit Lions, pest and present.

Iis history was gleaned from records originating in 1933 when the pow deceased Mr. G. A. Richards transterred the Portsmuth (Ohio) Spartans to Detroit. Then began Detroit's particlpation in the Netional Football League.

To keep abreast of current happenings as they develop throughout the season, the DFC publishes LION FANFARE, a fout-page newspager which will be mailed free to you upon request.

LIONS TRAIN AT YPSILANTI

Vast athletic facllities at Michigan State Normal College in Ypsllanti, Mieh., 35 miles west of Detroit, serve as the Lions' training site.

Briggs Fiuidhouss, utilized by the squad, was donated to the College in 1937 by the late Walter O. Briggs, Detroit industrialist-owner of the Tigers. Four practice fields and the James M. Brown newly built dormitory are other features used by the Lions.

LIONS' FACILITIES AT MICHIGAN STATE NORMAL COLLEGE include Brown Hall, where the squad lives; Walter O. Briggs Field and Fieldhouse.

Lions Wear Honolulu Blue-Silver Uniforms

The Detroit Football Company colors of Honolulu Blue and Silver are worn by the Lions in game uniforms at home and on the road. Honolulu Blue and Silver have served as the Lion colors since 1934. The Blue, a distinctive shade, was especially developed for the late Mr. G. A. Richards who transferred the Portsmouth, Ohio, Spartans to Detroit in the early 30s.

The Blue jersey is of nylon durene with 10-inch Silver numerals on the back, 8-inch on the front. The Silver pant is of nylon combat cloth in front, and two-way stretch of lastex and rayon in the back. The plastic helmet has an inner-suspension providing safety comparable to the service crash helmet.

. . . About Those 1952 Lions

"To be a contender for the National Football League championship, a team must be good. To win a championship, the team must be lucky, escape costly injuries and bad game breaks," said Head Coach Buddy Parker.

The 1951 Lions were denied the National Conference title in the final four minutes of the season's closing game. Leading San Francisco, 17 to 14, a wild punt return led to a 21 to 17 victory for the 49ers.

Parker has exerted untiring effort to bolster his 1952 squad. A trade brought veteran quarterback Jim Hardy from Chicago's Cardinals to aid Bobby Layne, who handled virtually all the quarterback chores last year.

The quarterbacks will have intact the All-American backfield. Doak Walker and Bobby Hoernschemeyer at the halves and Pat Harder at fullback carried most of the mail last fall.

As a sophomore, Walker tallied 97 points to rank third in League scoring and a place on the All-Pro team. He was the League's leading scorer as a freshman in 1950 with 128 points. A freak arm accident suffered by Walker in June has healed.

Hoernschemeyer, the team's co-captain last year, has been the Lions' leading ground-gainer the past two seasons.

Leon Hart saw service both on offense (where he scored twelve touchdowns) and on defense. His work brought him All-Pro team honors along with teammates Lou Creekmur and Les Bingaman, both guards, to give the Lions four places on the "dream team" of 1951.

The Hart-Creekmur-Bingaman triumvirate in the line has noteworthy support from Tackles John Prchlik, the team's co-captain, "Fum" McGraw, Floyd Jaszewski and Gus Cifelli, Guard Dick Flanagan, and Ends Cloyce Box, Jim Doran and Jim Martin.

The return of Box from the Marines is heralded. The 6-4, 220-pound speedster end accounted for 11 touchdowns in 1950 before summoned to war work.

As a freshman last fall, Defensive Halfback Jack Christiansen brought attention running four punt returns into touchdowns. Veteran Halfback Don Doll saw his pass-interception record dip but remains feared among the League's top defensive operators. Bob Smith who handled Lion punting developed as one of the League's better corner linebackers.

Rookie Halfbacks Yale Lary of Texas A & M, Hank Lauricella of Tennessee and Byron Bailey of Washington State will make a strong bid. Others Rookies are:

Quarterback Tom Dublinski, the nation's fourth-ranking quarterback in pass-completions last fall from Utah; End George "Pat" Summerall, the 6-3, 235-pounder of Arkansas, a kick-off and fieldgoal specialist; Bob Miller, the giant All-Southern Conference tackle from Virginia; Keith Flowers, TCU's Southwest Conference champion center and linebacker and Sherwin Gandee, Ohio State's fine defensive end.

President . . .

EDWIN J. ANDERSON

(Note to Editors: Edwin J. Anderson played his collegiate football at Beloit College. The following was written by H. G. Salsinger, sport editor of the Detroit News.)

When the Blue Devils of Beloit College arrived at South Bend that October day in 1925 to play Notre Dame, the betting gentry was offering even money that Notre Dame would win by a margin of 66 points or more and they felt safe in giving 66 points.

ANDERSON

The Beloit College football squad numbered exactly 11 men. There were no substitutes, just Tommy Mills, the coach who later became Knute K. Rockne's assistant, and 11 players.

What could Beloit's impoverished squad do against the Rockne powerhouse? Notre Dame had knocked over Baylor 41-0 in the opening game of the 1925 season, annihilated Lombard 69-0 in the second game, and now it would be Beloit. A week later Notre Dame was scheduled to play Army and the game with Beloit would give the Irish a light workout in preparation for the Cadets.

Star of Beloit's Line

Star of the Notre Dame line was Arthur "Bud" Boeringer, All-American center. Star of the Beloit line was Edwin J. Anderson, later named Mid-Western Conference, also known as the Little Nineteener, center.

The game developed into a battle of lines from the start and the only scoring in the first half was a field goal by Beloit, giving the Blue Devils a 3-0 lead.

It was different in the second half. Rockne kept substituting fresh players and on every play three or four men charged into Anderson, the Beloit center, who played up front on offense and behind the line on defense.

The 11 men of Beloit were worn down in the second half and Christie Flanagan got loose for three touchdowns, Notre Dame winning by a final score of 19-3.

"Score a Touchdown"

Anderson, the center, did not remember anything that happened in the last 10 minutes of the game. He was completely out, but after each play his teammates lifted him to his feet and held him in position. The next day he was told:

"Every time we got you up again, you'd yell: 'Come on fellows, let's score a touchdown,' and that seemed very odd since we were trying to hold Notre Dame on our 5-yard line."

The next year Beloit and Notre Dame met again and this time the handicappers were not so generous with their points but they might well have been since Notre Dame beat Beloit 77 to 0. You see, Edwin J. Anderson had been graduated the previous June and his departure meant the end of Beloit's football prominence.

Beloit's All-Time football great was originally enrolled at the University of Illinois. He was born at Rockford, Ill., attended grammar and high school there, captained the Rockford high school team in his senior year, and entered the University of Illinois the following September.

Homesickness Victim

Robert C. Zuppke immediately enlisted him as a member of the freshmen squad. Among his teammates were Harold "Red" Grange, Moon Baker, Earl Britton and others who later won intercollegiate fame.

After a few weeks, he became a victim of homesickness that he could not shake off and so one night, without a word to anyone, he packed his grip and returned to Rockford where his father, John A. Anderson, was in the furniture business.

A few days later Moon Baker also left Illinois and entered Northwestern, where he won All-American honors as a halfback.

Champaign, seat of the U of Illinois, is some 250 miles from Rockford. Anderson did not care to return to Illinois and his father suggested that he enroll at Beloit College, only 18 miles away. Being that near to Rockford he would avoid homesickness. So the boy went to Beloit.

"Eleven Iron Men"

At that time, Beloit College, founded in 1846, was well known in football. Its teams had played Northwestern, Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, Chicago, Minnesota, Notre Dame, Purdue and other major elevens and come off with a creditable record.

Young Anderson immediately made the team along with 10 others, including two miners from Butte, Montana, who were installed as the tackles.

Those were rollicking days for the Beloit team, that became known far and wide as the "Eleven Iron Men".

With Anderson playing brilliantly at center ,Beloit's line did heroic service and gave the backs plenty of protection. In 1924, Pat Dawson tied Cornell College with a 43-yard drop kick, and the same Dawson scored one-half of Beloit's points against Carleton, with two drop kicks, one traveling 42 yards, the other 38 yards. Roy Donischefsky, another back, drop-kicked a 46-yard field goal against Kalamazoo College.

The play that Anderson will never forget happened in the game with Lawrence College at Appleton, Wis., in 1925. The Mil-Western Conference championship was at stake. He relates:

Rhodes Scholarship

"I was playing a roving center and intercepted a Lawrence pass on our 5-yard line. I ran 90 yards to the Lawrence 5-yard line where I was caught from behind and fumbled. The man who caught me grabbed the ball and started for our goal and was brought down 90 yards away, on the exact spot wher I had intercepted the pass."

It was Anderson's last year of intercollegiate football. He was graduated the following June. When Byron "Whizzer" White won a Rhodes Scholarship a great deal was made of the fact, but the Whizzer was not the only football player who ever achieved this distinction; Anderson also won a Rhodes Scholarship, although he never used it. He was not alone the best football player ever to represent Beloit, but one of the best students in the history of the college.

W. NICHOLAS KERBAWY, General Manager

W. Nicholas "Nick" Kerbawy, general manager of the Detroit Lions in the National Football League, is a native of Blissfield, Mich. At the age of 18, Nick launched a career in public school teaching that terminated after 11 years when, in 1944, he was named athletic publicity director at Michigan State College.

KERBAWY

In 1948, he was named director of public relations for the Detroit Football Company. In August, 1950, Nick was promoted to assistant to the general manager and in December 1950 became the Company's business manager. He was named general manager on February 5, 1952.

Immediately prior to going to the Detroit Football Company in 1948, Nick was named the winner of the Helms Foundation award as the nation's No. 1 athletic publicitor as determined by the American College Public Relation Association.

THE DETROIT FOOTBALL COMPANY

On January 15, 1948, a group of Detroit and Michigan sportsmen, under the corporate ownership of the Detroit Football Company, purchased the Detroit Lion franchise from Fred L. Mandel. This transaction marked the third for the Lions. On June 30, 1934, Mr. G. A. Richards transferred the Portsmouth, Ohio Spartans to Detroit and the Lions came into being. On February 10, 1940, Mr. Richards sold his franchise to Mr. Mandel.

Of the seven men who originated the Detroit Football Company purchase, six remain on the company board of directors. Absent is Harry Wismer, prominent sportsman. The company's slate of officers follow: President, Edwin J. Anderson; First Vice-President and Secretary, William D. Downey; Second Vice-President, Walter O. Briggs, Jr.; Third Vice-President, Arthur R. Hoffman; Treasurer, Charles T. Fisher, Jr.; Counsel, Philip A. Hart. Members of the board of directors include D. Lyle Fife, Carl F. Unruh, Ernest Kanzler, George A. Cavanaugh, Ray M. Whyte, E. R. Bryant, and C. E. Bleicher. The company enrolls over 100 stockholders.

LIONS COACHING STAFF

RAYMOND KLEIN (Buddy) PARKER (Head Coach)

In the 12 months during which Buddy Parker directed the Detroit Lions, this shrewd young coach gained respect of players and the football public. The reason—he molded a team of star veterans with green rookies to produce the best team seen in Detroit since 1936. The team record was the best since 1938 and the result, second place in the Western division.

PARKER

Parker's ascendency to his first full-fledged head coaching job culminates a career in pro football that, coincidentally enough, started in Detroit 17 years ago.

He arrived to the Lions fresh from Centenary College where, during his senior year, he was one of the nation's leading ground-gaining halfbacks amassing more than 1,000 yards.

With Parker in the lineup, the Lions in 1935 won their lone World Professional title. The season culminated with a 26 to 7 victory over New York's Giants in the championship game.

Two years later, on Sept. 4, 1937, Parker went to the Chicago Cardinals in a player trade for tackle Bob Reynolds. He emerged 13 years later as the Cardinals' head coach.

Parker was a Cardinal quarterback and halfback during the 1943 season. He then assisted Jim Conzelman in directing the Cardinals to their pair of championships in 1947 and 1948.

Following Conzelman's departure, Parker in 1949 assumed a head co-coaching setup with Phil Handler. This arrangement continued for half the season after which Parker sole possession.

Parker shifted to the Lions in 1950 as backfield coach. Following the resignation of the late Bo McMillin, Parker was installed as head man.

Parker was born Dec. 16, 1913 in Kemp, Texas. His family includes wife Jane and four year old son, Bobby.

GEORGE WILSON, Assistant Coach

Commencing his fourth season as an assistant Lion coach, Wilson's journey in football originated at Chicago Austin High School. After winning three letters at Northwestern, Big George joined the Chicago Bears where he played end on several of pro football's best teams. The 1941 Bears eleven is popularly reputed to be the best George Halas produced. In 1942, Wilson captained the NFL All-Stars to a 17-14 victory over Washington's Redskins. After playing 10 years with the Bears, Wilson doubled two years as a player-coach for Halas before joining the Lions in 1949. Wilson was born Feb. 3, 1914 in Chicago. His family includes wife, Claire and children: Susan, 12; George, Jr., 9; Lynn, 5 and Kathleen, 3.

WILSON

ALDO J. FORTE, Assistant Coach

Forte is beginning his third season with the Lions. He was a teammate of George Wilson on the championship Bear teams of 1940 and 1941. Forte joined the Bears in 1939 after winning three letters in football at Montana State U. During World War II, Forte served as a lieutenant in the Navy from 1942 to 1946. Then he played with Detroit, Green Bay and again with the Bears. In 1946, Forte entered the retail jewelry business in Detroit. In 1948, Forte was a Bear scout and in 1949 he assumed similar duties with the Lions. He joined the coaching staff in 1950. Forte's first experience in coaching was in 1942 while stationed with the Navy in Washington. At that time, he assisted Clark Shaughnessy at U of Maryland. Forte is thirty-four. His family includes wife Lillian and infant son, Gregory.

FORTE

GARRARD RAMSEY, Assistant Coach

Garrard Ramsey, he prefers to be called "Buster", is the newest addition to the Lions coaching staff. Last year, he assisted Curley Lambeau as a player-coach, to complete five years on the Chicago Cardinal roster as a guard. Ramsey was a three letter-winner at William and Mary College. He won All American recognition in 1942. During a stint in the Navy, Ramsey made the All Service All American team in 1943 and 1944 and the Navy All Stars in 1945. Ramsey was placed on All National League teams in 1947, '48 and '49, while playing guard for the Cardinals. From 1947 to 1949, Buddy Parker, was assistant coach on the Cardinal staff. It was then Parker recognized Ramsey's knowledge of defensive football. During the off-season, Ramsey owns and operates a fishing camp near his hometown, Maryville, Tenn. He is 32 years old. His family: Betsy Lee and children, Gary 6 and Beth 3.

RAMSEY

J. RUSSELL THOMAS, Assistant Coach

Russ Thomas, former Lion star tackle from 1946 to 1949 joined the coaching staff in February. Coach Parker assigned Thomas to scout for new player talent throughout the United States. Thomas won a trio of letters at Ohio State and All-Big Nine honors in 1945. He made All National Football League tackle his first year with the Lions and captained his team the last. In 1950 and 1951, Thomas was line coach at St. Bonaventure under Joe Bach, a former Lion head coach. Thomas, 28 years old, is the youngest Lion coach. He is married. His family: wife, Dorothy and two sons, John, 6 and Jim, 2.

Michigan's leading sponsor of sports broadcasts

VAN PATRICK

FOOTBALL–Goebel brings you radio and television coverage of all Detroit Lions games. Van Patrick describes the action over WJR and the Goebel Football Network.

Goebel also sponsors the games of the San Francisco 49ers and the Los Angeles Rams–on both radio and television.

BASEBALL–For twelve consecutive years Goebel has sponsored all games of the Detroit Tigers. Van Patrick again calls the play-by-play, over the Goebel Baseball Radio and Television Network–one of the largest baseball hookups in the country.

HARNESS RACING–Goebel brings you harness racing from Northville Downs over WWJ-TV.
